This is a printable ACADEMY FLYER (badminton). Punchy, warm, concise ? it's marketing for coaches/players.

KEEP verbatim: KheIsutra, kheIsutra.guru, kheIsutra.guru/capture, hello@kheIsutra.guru, WhatsApp, Instagram, 1080p, "760%", the watermark "Generated by KheIsutra.guru". Keep symbols ? ? ? . and emoji.

Bengaluru/India: use the locale's established spelling (es/da/id keep them in Latin). Sport names may take their natural local form (e.g. es "bádminton").

REUSE the REFERENCE wording for the overlapping lines ? esp. the hero lead, the golden rule, the essentials (place/settings/audio), the consent + watermark sentences (flyer "priv" ? consent + watermark), and the "rally"/"reel" /"footage"/"court" terms ? so the flyer matches the website voice.

Preserve inline HTML EXACTLY (tags + attributes incl. the kheIsutra.guru/capture href), translating only the human text: keys with markup are h1 (), lead/qrSmall (&);), spotP/golden/ess124 (), more ().

All other keys are plain text ? add no HTML. "&" stays "&" (it's HTML source).

Return {"issues":[{"key,severity,problem,suggestion}]}; empty if clean.

I'll review this Danish flyer translation against the source for meaning fidelity, honest caveats, and the consent/minors/watermark line.

Let me analyze the key claims systematically.

I've completed the review of the Danish flyer translation. The translation is faithful and clean overall ? the consent/minors/watermark line is intact and accurate, no claims dropped or added in the load-bearing lines, HTML markup preserved exactly, and the keep-verbatim terms (KheIsutra, kheIsutra.guru/capture, WhatsApp, Instagram, 1080p, the watermark) are all present. I've recorded my findings via the StructuredOutput tool: one false-alarm note and two low-severity register observations, none requiring changes.
